

Speaking of patriotism these days, how about displaying some and not caving into corporatism. Giving my airwaves to a few power-hungry greedy corporations is the epitomy of anti-patriotic behavior and it is you that should be watching out for me. Wake up and smell the fascism coming down the pike. Be American, truly American, and use the anti-trust laws as they are supposed to be used. There's a fine line here between champ and chump; which side of the line do you camp on?
